DARK ANGELS

Characteristics

The Dark Angels Legion has the following characteristics:

- The Hexagrammaton. The First Legion was organized into a formation known as the "Six Hosts of the Angels of Death". While the legion follows the Principia Belicosa and its basic formations are companies and chapters, these structures can be fitted into the Hexagrammaton to form specialized formations as follows:
 - Dreadwing. When total annihilation of a foe was necessary this wing was called upon. It would house most of the legion's destroyers with large quantities of Apothecaries and Techmarines. They would also field many heavy assault Dreadnaughts and massed armored formations composed of Land raiders, Spartan Assault Carriers, Mastodons, Whirlwinds, Arquitor Bombards and Fellglaires. Librarians, when used, would also form part of this wing.
 - Deathwing. Specializing in line breaking, they are the tip of the spear. Terminator and Breacher units are used mostly in this regard. However, they also serve as protectors of command elements and the primarchs armor guard.
 - Ironwing. Dedicated to massed overwhelming firepower. Favored using massed artillery, armored vehicles, dreadnaughts, and heavy support. They also relied heavily on Terminators and Breacher formations.
 - Ravenwing. Highly specialized to prioritize speed over firepower. They favor fast cavalry type units, as well as air power. They favor recon or fast-moving infantry as subspecialized formation within the wing.
 - Stormwing. The largest of the wings they specialize in zona mortalis warfare. They use infantry of all types and the bulk of tactical marines where in this wing. It also used breachers and assault marines heavily.
 - Firewing. Specializing in infiltration and destroying command and control elements, they favored the use of formations such as seekers, the Enigmatus Cabal, and recon elements with sniper capabilities. They were a small, but very flexible wing.
